

About The Host

Leon Logothetis is no stranger to wild journeys and outrageous globe trotting exploits. Once a broker at a prestigious financial firm in London, Leon boldly quit his job one day after discovering his thirst for exploration had become too much to contain. On his first journey, as host of the hit National Geographic series, "Amazing Adventures of a Nobody," Leon had to beg, borrow and charm his way across the United States, England and the whole of the European continent while traveling on only $5 a day. Since then, Leon has become a world-renowned travel expert and TV host featured on MTV, The New York Times, The London Times, The Wall Street Journal, Budget Travel, Psychology Today, The Washington Post, Chicago Tribune, and more! His new book 'The Kindness Diaries' debuts around the world in January 2015
